

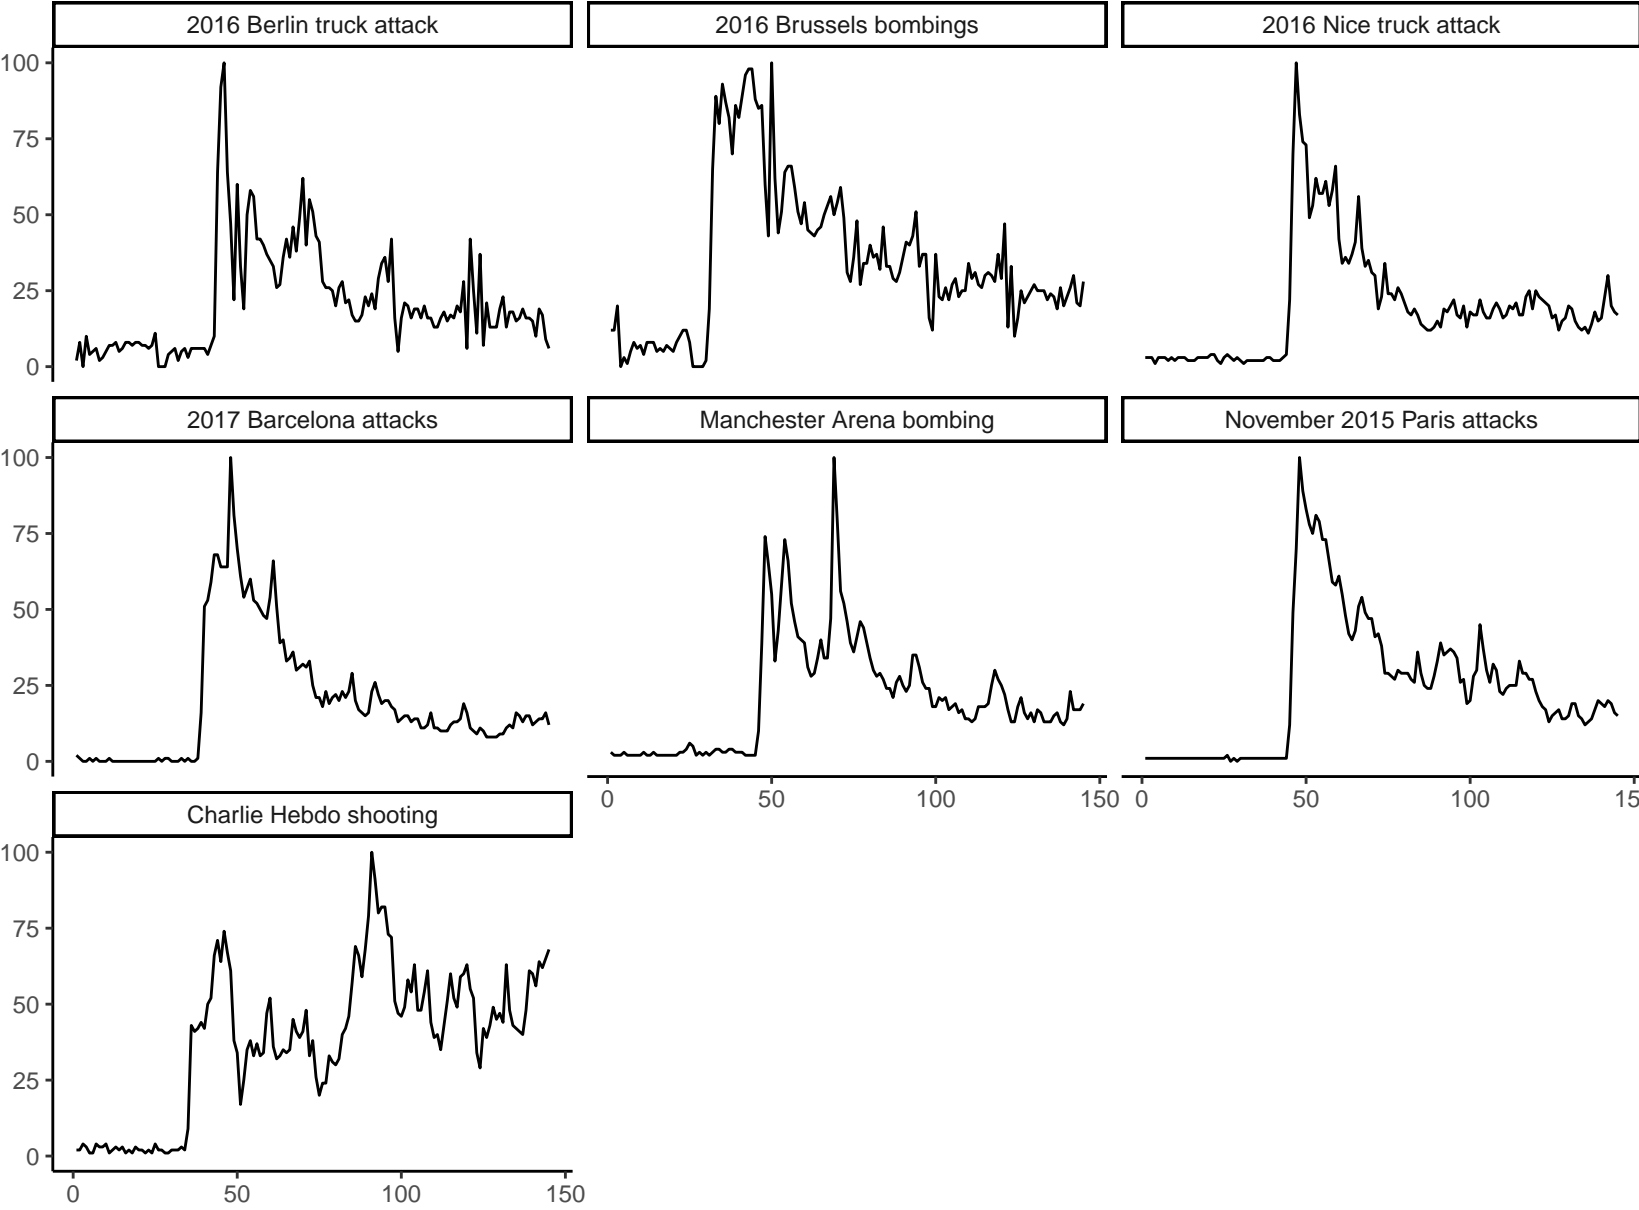

Figure A1: Emotional attention after terrorist attacks (hourly searches)

Notes: Hourly searches for 'terrorism' (translated into the relevant language) in the country directly affected by the attack. The pattern of searches following the Charlie Hebdo attacks is significantly different to the others, but none resemble Collins's Explosion–Plateau–Dissipation model.